AN ELEMENTARY PALI COURSE

Nārada Thera

TO MY VENERABLE TEACHER PELENE SIRI VAJIRAÑĀNA MAHĀ NĀYAKA THERA

PREFACE TO SECOND EDITION

The word Pāļi means "the Text", though it has now come to be the name of a language.

Māgadhi was the original name for Pāļi. It was the language current in the land of Magadha during the time of the Buddha (6th century B.C.).

Suddha Māgadhī, the pure form of the provincial dialect, was what the Buddha used as His medium of instruction.

The elements of Pāḷi can be mastered in a few months, Pāḷi opens one's ears to the Dhamma and the music of the Buddha's speech. It is also a lingua franca in Buddhist countries, and therefore worth acquiring.

This slender volume is intended to serve as an elementary guide for beginners. With its aid one may be able to get an introduction to the Pāḷi language within a short period.

I have to express my deep indebtedness to my Venerable Teacher, Pelene Siri Vajirañāna Mahā Nāyaka Therapāda, who introduced me to this sacred language. Words cannot indicate how much I owe to his unfailing care and sympathy.

My thanks are due to the Venerable Nyānatiloka Thera, for his valued assistance.

NĀRADA October, 1952.

AN ELEMENTARY PĀĻI COURSE

INTRODUCTION

Namo Tassa Bhagavato Arahato Sammā-Sam-Buddhassa!

Pāļi was the language spoken by the Buddha and employed by Him to expound His Doctrine of Deliverance.

Māgadhī is its real name, it being the dialect of the people of Magadha — a district in Central India.

Pāli, lit. "line" or "text", is, strictly speaking, the name for the Buddhist Canon. Nowadays the term Pāli is often applied to the language in which the Buddhist texts or scriptures were written.

The Pāli language must have had characters of its own, but at present they are extinct.

ALPHABET

The Pāļi Alphabet consists of forty-one letters, — eight vowels and thirty-three consonants.

The vowels " e " and " o " are always long, except when followed by a double consonant; e.g., ettha, ottha.

The fifth consonant of each group is called a "nasal".

There is no difference between the pronunciation of " \dot{n} " and " \dot{m} ". The former never stands at the end, but is always followed by a consonant of its group.

The dentals " t " and " d " are pronounced with the tip of the tongue Placed against the front upper teeth.

The aspirates "kh", "gh", "th", "dh", "th", "dh", "ph", "bh", are pronounced with "h" sound immediately following; e.g., in blockhead, pighead, cat-head, log-head, etc., where the "h" in each is combined with the preceding consonant in pronunciation.

Lesson I

A. Declension of Nouns ending in " a "

Nara*, m. man

SINGULAR PLURAL

Nominative naro narā

a man, or the man men, or the men

Accusative naram nare

a man, or the man men, or the men

Terminations

SINGULAR PLURAL

Nominative o ā
Accusative m e

^{*} In Pāḷi nouns are declined according to the terminated endings a, ā, i, ī, u, ū, and o. There are no nouns ending in " e ". All nouns ending in " a " are either in the masculine or in the neuter gender.

^{} There are three, genders in Pāḷi. As a rule males and those things possessing male characteristics are in the masculine gender, e.g., nara, man; suriya, sun; gāma, village. Females and those things possessing female characteristics are in the feminine gender, e.g., itthi, woman; gangā, river. Neutral nouns and most inanimate things are in the neuter gender, e.g., phala, fruit; citta, mind. It is not so easy to distinguish the gender in Pāḷi as in English.

 Nara + o = naro. Nara + $\bar{a} = nar\bar{a}$. When two vowels come together either the preceding or the following vowel is dropped. In this case the preceding vowel is dropped.

Lesson XIV

Participles

In Pāļi there are six kinds of Participles — viz:

- (i) Present Active participles,
- (ii) Present Passive Participles,
- (iii) Past Indeclinable Participles,*
- (iv) Past Active Participles,
- (v) Past Passive Participles, and
- (vi) Potential Participles

i. The Present Active Participles are formed by adding " anta " and " mana " to the root; e.g.,

```
paca + anta = pacanta;
paca + māna = pacamāna, cooking.
```

ii. The Present Passive Participles are formed by adding the Passive suffix "ya" between the root and the suffix "māna". If the ending of the root is "a" or "ā", it is changed into "i", e.g.,

paca + ya + māna = pacīyamāna, being cooked;
sū + ya + māna = sūyamāna, being heard.

Generally these suffixes are added to the forms the roots assume before the third person plural terminations of the present tense.

These participles are inflectional and agree with the noun or pronoun they qualify, in gender, number and case. They are also used when contemporaneity of action is to be indicated. The sense of the English words Ôas, since, while, whilst' may be expressed by them.

^{*} These have been already dealt with in lesson VIII - B. See Table in lesson VI - B

Declension of pacanta in the masculine

	SINGULAR	PLURAL
Nom.	pacam, pacanto	pacanto, pacantā
Voc.	pacaṃ, paca, pacā	pacanto, pacantā

Dat., Gen	pacato, pacantassa	pacatam, pacantānam
Loc.	pacati, pacante, pacantamhi, pacantasmim	pacantesu
	pacamasimin

Feminine

The feminine is formed by adding the suffix " \bar{i} ", as pacanta + \bar{i} = pacant \bar{i} , and is declined like feminine nouns ending in " \bar{i} " (See lesson X.)

Neuter

Nom., Voc Acc.	pacaṃ, pacantaṃ	pacantā, pacantāni pacante, pacantāni
	SINGULAR	PLURAL

The rest like the masculine.

The Present Participles ending in " $m\bar{a}$ na " are declined like " nara ", " $ka\tilde{n}\tilde{n}$ a" and " phala "; as $pacam\bar{a}$ no (m.) $pacam\bar{a}$ na (f.) and $pacam\bar{a}$ na (n.)

Illustrations:

gacchanto puriso, going man, or the man who is going.
gacchantassa purisassa, to the man who is going.
paccantī (or) pacamānā itthī, the woman who is cooking.
so vadamāno gacchati, he goes speaking.
patamānaṃ phalaṃ, the falling fruit.
rakkhīyamānaṃ nagaraṃ, the city that is being protected.
Ahaṃ magge gacchanto taṃ purisaṃ passiṃ, I saw that man while I was going on the way.

(iv), (v) The Past Active and Passive participles are formed by adding the suffix " ta ", or " na " after " d " etc. to the root or stem. If the ending of the root is " a ", it is often changed into " i ".

Examples:-

```
ñā
                     = \tilde{n}ata.
                                       known
            + ta heard
            + ta = suta.
su
            + ta = pacita, cooked paca rakkha = rakkhita.
                                       protected
            + ta chidi = chinna.
                                       cut \pm na
bhidi = bhinna.
                                       broken
             + na
```

These are also inflectional and agree with the noun or pronoun they qualify in gender, number and case. They are frequently used to supply the place of verbs, sometimes in conjunction with the auxiliaries " asa " and " hu " to be.

Illustrations:

So gato, he went or he is gone. (Here hoti is under-éhitāya nāriyā, to the woman who stood.

Buddhena desito dhammo, the Doctrine preached by the Buddha. Sissehi pucchitassa pañhassa, to the question asked by the pupils.

(vi) The Potential Participles are formed by adding the suffix " tabba " to the root or stem with or without. If the ending of the root is " a ", it is often changed into " i ".

Examples:-

 $D\bar{a}$ + tabba = dātabba, should or must be given. $n\bar{a}$ + tabba = $n\bar{a}$ tabba, should be known. paca + tabba = pacitabba, should be cooked.

These participles too agree with the noun or pronoun they qualify in gender, number and case. The agent is put in the Instrumental.

Illustrations:

Janako vanditabbo, the father should be saluted.
Jananī rakkhitabbā, the mother should be protected.
Cittaṃ rakkhitabbaṃ, the mind should be guarded.

Tayā gantabbaṃ, you should go.

Sāvakehi dhammo sotabbo, the Doctrine should be heard by the disciples.

B. Adjectives

In Pāļi Adjectives are inflectional and they agree with the substantives they qualify in gender number and case. Generally they are placed before the noun.

Adjectives ending in " a " are declined in the masculine feminine, and neuter like nara, phala, and kaññā respectively. Sometimes in the feminine they are declined like nārī.

Some adjectives may be formed by adding " vantu " to nouns ending in " a ", " \bar{a} " and " mantu " to nouns ending in " i " and " u ".

Examples: -

```
= balavantu.
bala
           + vantu powerful = bandhumantu, having relatives
bandhu
           + mantu dhiti
                           = dhitimantu.
           + mantu courageous = gunavantu,

           + vantu
guna
```

These adjectives are declined like "pacanta" with the exception of the Nominative singular;

e.g., :-

" Eka ", " ti " and " catu " are declinable in the three genders. When " eka " is used in the sense of 'some, certain, incomparable', it is declinable in the three genders and in both numbers. Otherwise it is declined only in the singular.

Numerals from "dvi" to "aṭṭḥārasa" are declined only in the plural. With the exception of "ti" and "catu" all the other numerals are common to all genders.

These numerals agree with the noun they qualify in number and case. Eka, ti, and catu agree in gender also. Generally they are placed before the noun.

Numerals from " ek'ūnavīsati " to " aṭṭha-navuti " and " koṭi "are treated as feminines and are declined only in the singular like feminine " i " (see bhūmi). Tiṃsā , cattāṭīsā, and paññāsā are declined like feminine " ā " (see kaññā).

Numerals from "ek'ūnasata" to "lakkha" are declined only in the singular like the neuter "a" (see phala). When, however, numerals from "vīsati" and upwards are used collectively they take the plural; e.g.,

dve vīsatiyo, two twenties tīni satāni, three hundreds

Ordinals

- 1. pathama (first)
- 2. Dutiya (second)
- 3. Tatiya (third)
- 4. Catuttha (fourth)
- 5. Pañcama (fifth)
- 6. Chattha (sixth)

The rest are formed by suffixing " ma ", as sattama (seventh), atthama (eighth), etc.

The ordinals also agree with the noun they qualify in gender, number and case. In the masculine and neuter they are declined like " nara " and " phala " respectively. In the feminine " pathama ", " dutiya ", and " tatiya " are declined like " kaññā ". The ordinals from " catuttha " to " dasama " assume the feminine suffix " \bar{i} " and are declined like " nārī "; e.g., catuttha + \bar{i} = catutth \bar{i} , sattama + \bar{i} = sattam \bar{i} , etc.

The feminines of other ordinals are formed by adding " \bar{i} " directly to the numerals, as ekādasa + " \bar{i} " = ekādasī.

B. Conjugations

In Pāļi there are seven conjugations. They differ according to their respective conjugational signs (Vikaraṇa) which are added on to the roots before the terminations.

There is no definite rule to indicate to which class of conjugation the roots belong.

The conjugations are as follows:-

2nd rudhi -to hinder m.....a

(In this conjugation too the conjugational sign is " a ", but " m " is argumented before the final consonant of the root and is afterwards changed into the nasal of the group-consonant that follows.

This rule applies only to the active voice.)

6th tanu — to spread o, yira
$$tanu + o + ti = tanoti kara + o + ti = karoti + yira + ti = kayirati$$
7th cura — to steal e, aya
$$cura + e + ti = coreti cura + aya + ti = corayati$$

The initial vowel in this class, not followed by a double consonant, undergoes vuddhi substitute, i.e., a, i and u become \bar{a} , e, o respectively.

Words:

minister Amacca m. Attha matter, good, welfare, meaning m. Hi indec. indeed Nātha lord, refuge m. Pāsāda palace m. country, kingdom, realm Rattha n. Sankilissati (kilisa with sam) is defiled Siyā 3rd pers. singular subjunctive of asa, to be Ti thus. This particle is used in quoting the words of others, at the end of sentences, etc. Vihaññati (hana with vi) perishes Visujihati (sudha with vi) is purified

^{*} In the conjugation of the root ki, to buy, which belongs to this class $n\bar{a}$ is changed into $n\bar{a}$; e.g. $ki + n\bar{a} + ti = kin\bar{a}ti$.

B. Causal Forms (Kārita)

Causals are formed by adding "e", "aya" to roots ending in "u" and " \bar{u} ", " \bar{a} pe", " \bar{a} paya" to roots ending in " \bar{a} " and all the four or two to the other roots. The terminations are added afterwards. All tenses, moods and participles have their own causal forms. The initial vowel, not followed by a double consonant, often undergoes vuddhi substitute. Sometimes the vuddhi substitutes "e" and "o" are changed into "aya" and "ava" respectively.

Examples:-

+e +ti
                          = pāceti

                                       — develops — lit. causes to become
```

Intransitive verbs become transitive, and ordinary transitive verbs take two objects when they assume causal forms.

Examples:-

Rukkho patati. The tree falls.

So rukkham pāteti. He makes the tree fall.

Dāso odanam pacati. The servant is cooking rice.

So dāsam odanam pāceti. He makes the servant cook rice.

Sometimes the agent of the causal verb or, in other words the indirect object is put in the Instrumental case e.g.,

So dāsena odanam pāceti.

In some cases the causal forms modify the original meaning of the verb; e.g.,

vaca — to speak, vāceti — reads

bhū — to be, bhāveti — develops, cultivates

Compounds (samāsa)

A Samāsa is a compound which is composed of two or more simple words.

As a rule only the final member of the compound takes the case terminations. The preceding members, with a few exceptions, drop their case endings and assume their bases.

The component parts of the compound are combined, wherever necessary, according to the rules of Sandhi.

In Pali there are five classes of compounds, viz:-

- 1. Adjectival Compounds (Kammadhāraya),
- 2. Case Compounds (Tappurissa),
- 3. Copulative Compounds (Dvanda),
- 4. Attributive Compounds (Bahubbīhi) and
- 5. Adverbial Compounds (Avyayībhāva).
- An Adjectival Compound (Kammadhāraya) is that which is formed by combining a substantive with an adjective, or a noun in apposition, or an indeclinable used in an adjectival sense, as its prior member.

In some instances the qualifying adjective follows the noun.

Examples: -

Taruṇo-puriso taruṇapuriso (m) young man Taruṇī-kaññā taruṇakaññā (f) young maiden Taruṇaṃ-phalaṃ taruṇaphalaṃ (n) young fruit

Sumedho-paṇḍito sumedhapaṇḍito Sumedha the wise or wise Sumedha

Mukham'eva cando mukhacando moon-face Sīlam'eva dhanam sīladhanam wealth of virtue

Su-jano sujano good man

Na-kusalamakusalamimmoral or non-moralNa-assoanassonon-horse (mule)Na-manussoamanuussonon-man (a spirit)

Those Adjectival Compounds that have a numeral as their first member are in Pāļi known as Digu Samāsa (Numerical Compounds).

They generally take the neuter singular when they imply an aggregate.

Examples: -

Dve-aṅguliyo dvaṅgulaṃ two-finger
Tayo-lokā tilokaṃ three-fold world
Catasso-disā catuddisaṃ four-fold direction
Cattāri-saccāni catusaccaṃ four-fold truth
Satta-ahāni sattāham week

They do not take the neuter singular when they do not imply an aggregate.

Examples:-

Eko-putto ekaputto one son
Tayo-bhavā tibhavā three existences
Cattasso-disā catuddisā four directions

2. A Case Compound (Tappurisa) is that which is formed by combining a substantive with another substantive belonging to anyone of the oblique cases, by dropping its case endings.

[&]quot;Na" followed by a consonant is changed into "a", and into "an" when followed by a vowel.

In some exceptional cases the preceding members retain their case endings.

These compounds take the gender of the final member and are declined accordingly.

With the exception of the Nominative and Vocative cases all the other oblique cases go to form these compounds.

* According to Samskrit grammarians this class of compounds is known as Determinative Compound.

Examples:-

1. Dutiyā-Acc.	gāmaṃ-gato	= gāmagato, he who has gone to the village.
	sivaṃ-karo	= sivamkaro,* blessings-bestower.
2. Tatiyā-Abl. of A	gent. Buddhena-desito	= Buddhadesito, preached by the Buddha.
3. Karaṇa-Instr.	Asinā-kalaho	= asikalaho, sword-fight.
4. Catutthī-Dat.	Lokassa-hito	= lokahito, beneficial to the world.
5. Pañcamī-Abl.	Corasmā-bhayam	= corabhayam fear from thief.
6. Chatthī- Gen.	Buddhassa-dhammo	= Buddhadhammo, Buddha's Doctrine.
7. Sattamī-Loc.	Vane-vāso	= vanavāso, residence in the forest.
	Ante-vāsiko	= antevāsiko,* pupil (lit. he who lives near).

^{*} The case endings are retained in these instances.

- 3. A Copulative Compound (Dvanda) is that which is formed by combining two or more substantives which, if not compounded, would be connected by the particle "ca".
 - (a) These compounds generally take the plural and the gender of the final member when the component members are viewed separately.
 - (b) If they collectively imply an aggregate, they take the neuter singular.

Examples:-

a. Cando ca suriyo ca narā ca nāriyo ca	= candasuriyā,* = naranāriyo,	moon and sun. men and women.
b. Nāmañ ca rūpañca	= nāmarūpaṃ,	mind and matter.
Sukhañ ca dukkhañ ca	= sukhadukkham,	happiness and pain.
Hatthi ca gavo ca assā ca	= hatthigavāssam, elep	hants, cattle, and horses.

- *. Words with fewer syllables are often placed first.
- 4. An Attributive Compound (Bahubbīhi) is that in which the component members collectively denote something else than what is originally expressed by them.

These compounds assume the gender of the implied object and are declined accordingly.

* Words with fewer syllables are often placed first.

Examples:-

Pīta means yellow. ambara, garment; but pītambaro means he who has a yellow garment, Āgata, come; samaṇa, ascetics; āgatasamaṇo, the place to which ascetics have come, i.e., a monastery.

Dittho, seen; dhammo, Truth; ditthadhammo, by whom the Truth has been seen, i.e., a Saint.

Ni, free from; taṇhā craving; nittaṇho, he who is free from craving, i.e., an Arahant.

5. An Adverbial Compound (Avyayībhāva) is that which has as its first member a prefix (upasagga) or an indeclinable (nipāta), not used in an adjectival sense, * but used in determining the sense of the final member.

The Adverbial Compounds generally take the neuter gender and are indeclinable. They are treated like the nominative singular of neuter substantives.

If the final member of these compounds ends in " a " of " ā ", the neuter termination " m " is affixed; otherwise the final vowel is retained except in cases of long vowels which are shortened.

* See Adjectival Compounds.

Examples:-

Indeclinables (Avyaya)

An Avyaya is that whose form remains the same in all genders, numbers, and cases, without undergoing any change.

There are two kinds of Avyayas, viz :-Upasagga and Nipāta.

An Upasagga (prefix) is an indeclinable word which possesses an independent meaning and which, when prefixed to substantives and verbs, usually modifies their original sense.

These Upasaggas correspond to prefixes in Latin and sometimes to prepositions in English.

Of the above prefixes abhi, anu, pati, and pari are sometimes used after the words.

Frequently the consonant following du, ni, and u, and sometimes vi, is duplicated. If the consonant is aspirated, the first duplicated one is changed into the same unaspirated consonant.

Before a vowel " r " is augmented in the case of " du " and " ni ", " d " in the case of " u ", and " y " in the case of " vi ".

Taddhita — Nominal Derivatives

Words formed by adding suffixes to the bases of substantives, primary or derived from roots, adjectives, etc. are called Taddhita.

Some of these derivatives are treated as nouns and adjectives and are declined accordingly. A few others are treated as indeclinables.

There are many such suffixes which are used in various senses. The following are the principal ones of these:-

1. " A " is used to signify possession, pedigree, etc.

In this case the initial vowel, not followed by a double consonant, undergoes Vuddhi substitute.

Examples:-
```

Paññā + a = pañña (m. Nom. Sing. pañño), he who has wisdom, or wise.

Saddhā + a = saddha (m. Nom. Sing. saddho), he who has faith, or faithful; devotional.

Vasiṭṭh + a = Vāsiṭṭha - vāsiṭṭha; vāsiṭṭhā; vāsiṭṭhā, daughter of Vasiṭṭha;
vāsiṭtham, Vasiṭṭha clan.
```

2. " Ika "* is used to signify 'pertaining to', 'mixed with', 'crossing', 'versed in', 'engaged in', etc.

In this case too the initial vowel, not followed by a double consonant, undergoes Vuddhi substitute.

Examples:-
```

```

              + ika = lonika,

Kitaka — Verbal Derivatives

Words formed by adding suffixes to verbal roots are called kitaka.

There are several such suffixes which are used in various senses.

A few of the important ones are given below:

1. " A " is affixed to roots to form masculine abstract nouns, to denote agent, instrument, etc. The initial vowel undergoes vuddhi substitute.

```
Examples:-
                          = bhava, becoming, existence
Bhū
             +a = bhava, nature, condition
                          = bodha, understanding
Budha
             +a = dosa, anger, hatred
Dusa
             +a Ji
                          = jaya, victory
             +a = khaya, destruction
Khī
                          = lobha, covetousness, greed, lust
Lubha
                          = moha, ignorance, delusion
Muha
             +a = pāta, fall
Pata
             +a = pāda, foot (by which one walks)
Pada
             +a Ruja
             + a = roga, disease
```

2. " A " is also affixed to roots when the words forming their objects are prefixed to them.

The verbal derivative thus formed is afterwards compounded with the preceding word. The initial vowel of the root sometimes undergoes vuddhi substitute.

Examples:-

giver of food = annada. Annam $+ d\bar{a}$ +a $+ d\bar{a}$ = balada. Balam strength-giver +a+ dhara = dhammadhara. one versed in the Doctrine Dhammam +aDinam = dinakara. maker of the day, (sun) + kara $\pm a$ Kumbham + kara = kumbhakāra. + a potter Ratham + kara = rathakāra. coach-builder +aMālā + kara = mālākāra, garland-maker +a

3. " A " is also added to roots when words other than their objects are prefixed to them. Sometimes the final syllable is dropped.

Examples:-

Pādena = pādapa, tree (lit. drinking with the foot). + pā +aBhujena = bhujaga, snake (lit. going zigzag). + gamu +aKammato + jana = kammaja, action-born +aVane + cara = vanacara. forest-wanderer +aVārimhi = vārija, + iana water-born, aquatic +a

4. In the case of " aka " the initial vowel of the root frequently undergoes vuddhi substitute, and monosyllabic roots ending in " a " take an augment " y ", and those ending in " i ", and " u " change into aya and ava respectively before the suffix.

" Aka " and " tu " are affixed to roots to denote the agent of the action.

In the case of " tu " the initial vowel of monosyllabic roots undergoes viuddhi substitute and the final syllable of others are sometimes changed into " t ".

Examples:-

= dāyaka, giver, supporter Dā + aka Ni = nāvaka. + akaleader = sāvaka, hearer, disciple Sa + aka Bhuji = bhojaka, + aka eater + aka = gamaka, Gamu goer Jana + aka = Janaka, father (producer) Kara + aka = kāraka, doer Dā = dātu, giver + tu Ni + tu= netu, leader Su + tu = sotu, hearer

              + tu

                           = bhattu.
                                         husband (supporter)

                                         speaker
              + tu
                           = vattu.
```

* Here " m " is changed into " n ".

5. " Ana " and " ti " are affixed to roots to form neuter and feminine abstract nouns respectively.
